

The Game of Pratt.

Instructions:

The object of the game is to accumulate enough credits to graduate (134), which are divided into 3 groups: required, major, and elective. To start, each player selects a senior card. (Pull off the white plastic side grip to separate them.) On the back of the cards, you will find listed the credit goal needed to graduate.

Players receive the following: a pawn, a credit slip, (to keep track of accumulated credits), $10,000—one $5,000 bill, three $1,000 bills, three $500 bills, four $100 bills, and two $50 bills.

A player will be in charge of collecting and dispersing money (the Bursar), another player will read the chance listings.

Roll the dice—the highest number goes first at the cannon blast.

The Cannon: As you pass here, collect $2,000 from the Bursar (except on the starting roll).

The Schlitzo Chuck Square: Landing here means you must change your major by closing your eyes and randomly selecting another one.

The Game of Pratt

Gate Square: Land here, pick up a gate card, hold onto it. Pay for all credits listed on card ($3,000) as you pass the Bursar Square (screw). Hold onto the cards that you cannot afford.

Scoring: (1) list the credit goal from your major card. (2) pay for credits (3) list them under appropriate categories on the credit slip. (Credits are added as you go along). Example: Major-Ceramics Credit Goal

Required/Major/Elective
66	40	28
13	13	10 credits acquired
10	13	13
23	26	23

Loss of credits during the game (Negative Chance Square) will immediately be subtracted from the sum of the credits you have collected.

23	26	23 credits lost
23	26	13

The Portico Square: Landing on the first Portico Square sends you across the board to the second Portico Square and vice versa.

Jackpot: A player landing here collects the existing jackpot. All payment penalties from Chance Squares are paid to the jackpot.

Short Cut: Follow the feet to the opposite square, or vice versa.

The Bursar Square: Pay for Gate Cards as you pass. If the roll to the Bursar puts you past the screw, you must pay for your credits before playing the square you land on. If your roll should take past the cannon, collect the $2,000 after dealing with the Bursar.

Roll Over Spot: Player rolls the dice again. The only doubles used in this game is a pair of ones (snake eyes), roll again without moving your pawn and collect 1,000 times the roll of the dice.

Bankruptcy: A player who has run out of money must take a leave of absence (miss a turn). Upon re-entering the game, roll the dice and receive 100 times the number on the dice. Pay debts and move.

INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING

Prattonia '81

The same game holds us . . .
as we travel along the track
we search for our truths
we make plans and dream dreams.
The track may very well be Pratt for the time being,
but the game remains the same,
game of life.
In college, often there are no distinctions between work and play . . .
both activate a better meaning of life.
In life, we are creative individuals with or without reason.
In the game, we are pawns
with or without purpose.
The choice remains ours . . .
to obey the rules or follow a different star.
As individuals we communicate, create,
and produce . . . for whatever reasons.
Unity and purpose aid our communication.
As pawns we adjust, adapt,
cooperate, understand,
look up and relate our experiences to life.
Whether for diversion, amusement, physical outlet, display of skill, excitement,
intellectual stimulation,
or merely for the action—
anything worth doing is simply worth doing.

Dedicated to and in memory of,
Tom Huff 1959–1981

The discipline and pain inherent in the creative process coupled with the euphoria which comes with a successful solution, gives life in Willoughby a blend of monastery and whorehouse.

A diligent architect might be found cooking burgers over the fiery remains of a model he's spent weeks constructing. A photographer at the end of a psychological roll of thirty-six, rooms the halls in his underwear crying out for Rita. His mother perhaps? Designers marvel at the use of yellow and blue on macaroni boxes.

We are free to let our energies run wild. We see hear taste feel all that is new and different. The chance to interact with others of similar nature and talent is as educational as what transpires in the classroom. We have stood alone as artists. We now have the opportunity to direct our own course as individuals, apart from the safe confines of home.

How lonely the artist who never shared the struggle of creativity or the creative struggle for a dryer. How easy it must be to finish assignments on time without a roommate given to midnight tours of Manhattan. How incomplete an education would be without the bards of the stairwell.

Another coat of white paint, another tenant. Willoughby was only as unique as we were. What we became here makes us unique always.

Hey Brooklyn! This is me, and now I can see, there's no place like home . . . there's no place like Brooklyn!

See the campus has trees and we do enjoy it's monumental breeze from the East River ripping over the "holy land" where planes fly and sirens sing us back to the drawing board. What's another "all-nighter"???????

TALKING BIG APPLE

Well, there's all kinds of cities that I ramble around
But, New York, New York, now there's a helluva town
You know it ain't no lie and it ain't no puff
They got five big boroughs chock full of stuff
They got skyscrapers, subways and a sea of humanity

Museums, libraries, culture galore
They got cable T.V. how could you ask for more
And if reality is your cup of meat
They got Forty-Second Street
Take a stroll downtown and run the gauntlet

If you like action, come to N.Y.C.
They got murder and rape and robbery
They got all kinds of violence can happen to you
They got broken glass and dog doo-doo
A Saturday Night Special every night of the week

They got bars in New York that never close
And bars where the people take off their clothes
And bars where the young folks dance all night
And bars where a fella can pick a fight
If you want to you can spend the night—behind bars

Well, like I said before, you know I ramble around
And meet a whole lotta people out there that put New York down
'Course half them people ain't never been there
So some of that criticism just ain't fair

Sure, I know New York is dirty and ugly and fulla cockroaches and Gonorrhea and rats and junkies, hookers, rude cab drivers, bad air
And bad vibes and unemployment and they don't pick up the garbage
Ah, but it's not boring

I've done it before and if there's more I'll have another cup of inspiration. Work all day . . . work all night . . . think I'll have another bite of Bree "CHEESE!" we say, when cameras stay in focus of our accomplishments.

You must trust yourself.
Believe in yourself!
No one else will ever really understand you or what you're about if you don't. Go with what you believe in; if you don't care, no one else ever will.
Ask yourself questions and do your damndest to answer them.
Have fun!!
Donn Albright

We're guided along alone you can get much further if you can remember to work as hard as you play. Enough is enough! With a party here, and a party there, here a party, there a party, everywhere a party, party!!!

Have another beer . . . Music! There's got to be music! Turn it up, so everyone can hear the universal language of money changing hands to buy another record of another favorite group to fill

We see her, she is, conceived, as we are, we created her, and we are created, reborn, re-learned, re-used, returned, to the dust, to the clay, to the earth, to be re-created, reinterpreted in words, in pigment, in line, in space, in light, in life, in love, we love, we see, we are.

Student Services is that part of Pratt life which takes its name from what it does, but even more from the attitude with which it is done. To serve students is far more than having a vice-president in charge of a team which recruits and gets students in. It's more than providing a place to work out; counseling or career planning or placement; visa problem solving or organizing clubs; a temperance taker or a housing facilitator; a program opening higher education for people to whom it has been closed.

Serving students is actively respecting and even revering each individual because the person is there before you; involved in education in a way that a classroom does not provide.

Serving students is an attitude, and for many of the Pratt people who serve students, it is not a career as much as it is a way of life.

For sure there are days when the game of Pratt is not a game and when every obstacle possible seems to get in the way. And those days are real at Pratt, but they are not the norm. The odds are low that human error will line up completely against anyone all the time. Those odds are made lower by the good will and affection of the different people who very often refer to the students as "our students" with a sense of uncommon pride.

To serve students at Pratt is to be given the rare chance of contributing to the education of people who will make a difference in the world. Pratt alumni were first Pratt students and they fill the world with an impact which no other school can claim. To serve a Pratt student is to make an investment in the future of a woman who is significant now and who is very able to claim her place in the world. It is to be involved in the well being of a man whose work will lead humanity through its own myopia; to creative solutions for problems yet unnamed.

Those who serve students at Pratt have their own game which is played in the future when the names and faces and work of their students surface in the public world. To serve students at Pratt is to be able to have a very private sense of pride, knowing that you have played a part in the lives of those who now serve you and your world in areas and ways beyond your own ability. To serve students at Pratt is to be part of a conspiracy of concern and a chain of involvement which began before the first convocation and which will last past the final good-bye on the first Friday of any June.

Our memories frame experiences
we shall never erase.
Reminders of the past triggered by the events on the track, form and space our lives.
We graduate into the future
taking with us
what we know, who we know,
and endless possibilities of new encounters only to ask will we meet again?
We'll look and see what we've come to be and play the game with company again go ahead fall behind always bouncing back
due to our decisions.
It's your turn . . .
